DEAD CHICAGO PHYSICIAN BORN IN GRAYLING

Was Son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Van Dusen

A clipping from a Chicago newspaper told of the death of Dr. Austin K. Van Dusen which occurred June 22nd. He was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Van Dusen and grandson of Mrs. Emma Keeler, and the late E. A. Keeler, former residents of Grayling, and the young man was born here June 28th, 1898.

Dr. Van Dusen usually spent his vacations in Grayling with his grandparents when they lived here, and will be remembered by many of our citizens. He was united in marriage to Miss Frances Leeming, who survives him together with two children, Frances and Arthur Junior.

Funeral services were held Friday, June 24th at the North Shore church. Interment was at Marshall, Mich., Saturday at noon.

A letter from Mrs. E. A. Keeler, 8721 Malden avenue, Chicago, said that Dr. Van Dusen would have been 40 years old June 28th, and was believed to have a great future ahead of him. He had been ill for the past four months and suffered great pain, from a growth near his heart.

CARNIVAL COMPANY COMING

The Legion Drum and Bugle Corps is sponsoring a carnival company—Barkroot Bros.—which will open here July 9th and continue to the 16th. It will be located on the South Side across highway US 27 from the McClanahan oil tanks.

Among the features to be presented are 7 rides; 5 shows; 30 concessions and free acts. It is reported that this organization bears a fine reputation for high class entertainments and good order.

The Drum and Bugle corps is still in debt and the members take this method of raising money. We all know these men to be worthy and deserving of such patronage as we are able to give them.

Remember the date—July 9 to 16.

Grayling Swamps Lewiston

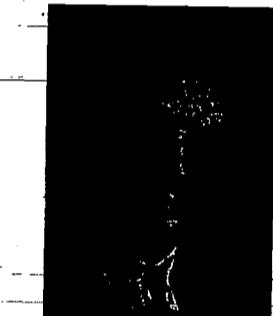

Going to Lewiston Sunday, Grayling went to town in a game of baseball, defeating Lewiston by a score of 21-9. They knocked three pitchers out of the box, going on a regular hitting spree. In the sixth inning Bob Hanson hit one over the fence and cleared the sacks with no one before him, and then Ford got the fever in the same inning and with his good eye on the ball, and the bases loaded, heaved another one over the fence. There were several local fans followed the team.

Winterlee, Pond and May were on the mound for Grayling with Jimmy Post behind the bat.

Next Sunday Grayling plays Cadillac at Fife Lake. Cadillac is reported to be leading in the loop, so a tight game is looked for. They are said to be hard hitters and have an all around good team. On the Fourth Grayling plays Kalkaska at Fife Lake.

Careful . . . It's Dangerous!

New Furniture Store Opening Friday

TO BE KNOWN AS JOHNSON FURNITURE CO.

Clarence Johnson has been working hard for the past month to purchase stock and get his new furniture store ready to open for business by Friday, July 1st. So the big day is tomorrow and everything is set for the big event that means so much to its owner and to the people of this region whom the store hopes to serve.

That Grayling needed a good furniture store was generally agreed. For the past year furniture buyers had to go to Bay City, Traverse City and other places in order to get the things they wanted.

Mr. Johnson has lived here most all his life. He is full of enterprise and hustle and there is every reason to believe that he will give Grayling one of the best furniture stores in the north.

For the past week stocks have been rolling in and by the time this article is read they will be arranged and on display. We understand it will be the policy of this store to carry in stock the staple lines, such as are needed in homes. And their close connection with the markets will enable them to get quick delivery on special orders.

The attractive lines they are ready to show will be added to as the demands require. Besides a nice line of tables, chairs, davenport, porch furniture, rugs and other floor coverings, etc., a stock of selected wallpapers will be carried.

The store will be open for business Friday morning. Let's show our appreciation by dropping in and extend our best wishes to the new owner.

A new project was begun at Camp Grayling during the past winter with the installation of machinery and equipment to repair boots and shoes in camp.

Serg. Earl Woods, formerly of Bay City, is in charge of this unit.

Camp Grayling is located on beautiful Lake Margrath, 5 miles west of Grayling.

FORMER GRAYLING LADY PASSED AWAY

Friends of Mrs. Mae Peterson-Williams, wife of James Williams of Marlette, and well known in Grayling, were sorry to learn of her passing on June 20th, at her home in that city. The young woman had been ailing for some time, but her death came unexpectedly by her family and friends.

Mrs. Williams was the oldest daughter of the late Henry and Marie Peterson, and spent her girlhood in Grayling, learning the millinery trade here in the shop of Mrs. J. E. Crowley. Her parents left Grayling in 1910 and moved to Marlette, when the Smith-Peterson Lumber Company was formed there, which still is in operation. Mrs. Williams operated a millinery store in Marlette for several years later going to Detroit, where she was united in marriage to James Williams, May 11, 1923. Following the passing of her mother in 1930, she returned to Marlette to make her home.

Surviving the deceased is her husband, one son Phillip, and two sisters, Mrs. Helen Smith and Mrs. Dorothy Hall of Detroit.

ROSCOMMON CELEBRATING THE FOURTH

Roscommon is one of the communities in Northern Michigan that will celebrate the 4th. They announce a program of bands, sports, dancing, fireworks and, in general, are planning to give their visitors a good time that day.

A sudden drop in temperature during the hatching season, even of a few degrees, may destroy a bass crop.

Michigan's tourist revenue last year topped all states, including California and Florida.

THANK YOU

The Lewiston Ladies Aid and also the board of trustees of the Congregational Church wish to thank the merchants of Grayling who gave so freely the lovely prizes for our party which was held last Friday night, June 24.

The proceeds went towards painting our church. We thank you all, many times.

F. C. Barney.

Bushmen Practice Simple Life; Are Always Happy

In the Kalahari desert of the Bechuanaland protectorate may be found a stone age race, which has had to give way first to the Hottentots and then to the Bantu and the European.

A special refuge camp had been provided in this desert for these Bushmen—a people without country, creed, or protective government—where they may live secure from surrounding tribes of Bantu and be saved from extinction, writes the correspondent in the Philadelphia Inquirer.

The Bushmen are small, about 4 feet 8 inches in height, with an average weight of 95 pounds. Sun-baked from infancy, their skins are shriveled and the soles of their feet callused from long wanderings on the desert sands. Rough shelters of branches covered over with loose grass provide their "homes." Water is scarce, and is preserved for drinking in ostrich egg shells buried in the sand.

Anyone who is directly implicated in any accident involving distance judgment should have his eyes examined. Until examinations are made it often is difficult to determine whether or not eyesight is bad.

Some of the large tracking concerns are now requiring that their drivers have their eyes checked. This provision will not only protect the truck drivers and their cargoes; it will protect other motorists as well.

It is important for the driver of a car to be in first class physical condition as it is for the motor of the car to be in good mechanical repair.

Rely on the other fellow to slow down, or depend on the other driver to give you the right of way—he'll do it only four times out of ten according to a recent highway survey in Massachusetts.

To many of us put too much faith in the ability and good intentions of the other driver. Cromwell once said, "Trust in the Lord, but keep your powder dry."

Do not depend on the other fellow. Slow down instead of expecting that the other driver will step on his brake. Yield the right of way when there is a question. Keep your car in such shape that you can meet all emergencies instantly.

It's smart to be careful.

Canada Has "Townships"; Divided in Early Times

For a generation following the American Revolution which ended in 1783, the Canadian-United States international boundary line was only vaguely known, and some considerable settlements were made by people who may have thought they were still in the United States. Most of the settlers came from the New England states and established themselves in what are known as the Eastern Townships of Quebec, relates a writer in the Cleveland Plain Dealer.

This territory was divided into townships in the early years of the British regime in Canada. This mode of division distinguished the section from the parishes of the lowlands near the St. Lawrence that were established during the period of French control. The "townships" comprise 13 counties, and occupy some 8,000 square miles of rolling plain. On the south and east they extend to the international border and are adjacent to the states of Vermont, New Hampshire and Maine.

The location of this storied area of French-Canada makes it of easy access to the motorist, who will find that nature and man have cooperated in making it one of the finest holiday centers of the continent.

Always be sure that the dahlias have plenty of water. And another good thing is to put in your stakes at planting time rather than later.

If all your fuses are sound and the light is still off, the fault may be in your meter. You cannot touch this until help is obtained from the electricity supply company.

Throughout the summer cultivation should be regular in order to destroy weeds. But when the buds begin to appear, shallow cultivation should be the practice or discontinue it altogether.

Always know where to turn off the water supply at a moment's notice. Find out the precise position of the valve controlling the main. It is usually either on the pavement or in the roadway opposite the house, or just within the garden gate, and covered with metal lid.

As the flower buds begin to appear at the end of dahlia stems, laterals will start to grow from the axils of the leaves. All of these except the basal pair should be rubbed out as they appear. In this way, large, long-stemmed flowers will be obtained and a sequence of bloom will be assured.

Baldwin—Almost a perfect Siamese, a chicken with four legs, four wings, one head, and one body was hatched recently near here. With a body unusually large for a newly-hatched chick, it houses two complete chickens within one skin. A second head was found just under the skin behind the fully-formed head. The mother hen pecked her freakish child to death, but the odd bird's body was rescued and preserved.

Play Safe July Fourth

Hundreds will be killed or injured on Independence Day, the National Safety Council predicts. A few of the causes are listed below.

False perceptions are responsible for many accidents. Statistics show that a large proportion of railway crossing accidents are caused by drivers actually running into trains. Some of these accidents may be due to optical illusions.

Many persons do not have accurate distance perception. An object which seems to them to be several hundred yards away may be only a few blocks away. A person driving 50 or 60 miles an hour does not have sufficient time to correct an initial misjudgment.

Anyone who is directly implicated in any accident involving distance judgment should have his eyes examined. Until examinations are made it often is difficult to determine whether or not eyesight is bad.

Some of the large tracking concerns are now requiring that their drivers have their eyes checked. This provision will not only protect the truck drivers and their cargoes; it will protect other motorists as well.

At Topinabee

Michigan newspaper publishers and their families will enjoy early vacations this year when they assemble at Hotel Top-in-a-bee at Topinabee, Michigan, on beautiful Mullett Lake in Cheboygan County on Thursday, June 30, for the opening of the annual Summer Outing of the Michigan Press Association. Opening Thursday the Outing continues through July 2 with a well-filled program that includes sight-seeing tours to Cheboygan county's many points of interest, a carnival of entertainment specialties at Hotel Topinabee, speedboat rides on Mullett and Burt Lake, golf, bathing, badminton, fishing and the countless other forms of recreation that establish Northern Michigan as a vacation paradise.

The Outing banquet, floor show and Publishers' Ball on Friday evening will probably be the outstanding events of the gathering. Rex White of Radio Station WWJ has accepted an invitation to act as Master of Ceremonies. Eight Cheboygan county organizations are cooperating to provide a floor show that will provide extreme enjoyment during the MPA Outing. Radio artists from Detroit are being brought to Topinabee to entertain the editors and their families and Cheboygan county bands and some of the best individual talent in the north will add further enjoyment to the meeting.

Perhaps an unique feature of the Outing will be the large number of souvenir gifts that will be given to all editors and the members of their families who attend. Cheboygan industries are cooperating generously to supply those who attend the Outing with free souvenirs, products manufactured in Cheboygan plants. One industrial firm alone has contributed $225 worth of products to be given away as souvenir gifts.

Thursday evening the Cheboygan Municipal band will play a concert for the editors and their families on the spacious lawn of the hotel after which a huge bonfire will be lit on the beach and group singing will be enjoyed by Outing guests.

The convention events begin Friday morning with a Blind Bogey-Kickers' golf tournament on the Indian River Golf Course, the winner of which will be presented with a handsome prize. A similar tournament will be held for the ladies on the same course at that time. Scent Guides Lives of Creatures of the Wilds

The power of scent plays a vital part in the lives of all creatures of the wild. Through it they receive advance notice, by way of the air currents, of the presence of enemies, are able to recognize their kind and find mates. In fact, almost every moment of their existence is influenced by the sense of smell, and the distance over which they are able to pick up a scent is truly astonishing. Thus to the weaker fraternity the air often carries terrorizing news, while to the strong it wafts a gratifying message of a meal in prospect, according to Mack B. Stielau, secretary Detroit Izaak Walton league, in the Detroit News.

The very young of most species do not emit a scent, but whether this is due to immaturity, or wise provision of nature to protect her helpless children, we do not know. All kindred of the wild, however, instinctively recognize the scent of their natural enemies, and either hide or hasten to get as far away from it as possible. Even while at play, time is taken out by the young to sniff the air for alien odors. This same trait may also be observed by some domestic animals.

In the insect world, smell also plays an important part and we find that the sentinel bees are able to detect and keep "foreign" kin from entering the hive. It guides the butterfly and the moth to the female, and it is said that in the pursuit they are able to discover the last spot on which she rested. Through this sense the lowly ticks which attach themselves to some animals are able to pick a suitable host on which to satisfy their unquenchable thirst for blood.

Descendants of Viking

Chiefs Recall Grandeur

At Visby, picturesque capital of the island of Gotland, there is presented an historical pageant, which is a popular feature of the Scandinavian season.

Over this lovely Baltic island flies the flag of Sweden and over towered walls and vaulted ruins there is peace—a peace shot through with dreams of long-gone grandeur, says a writer in the Philadelphia Inquirer.

Here roses bloom in profusion where once bearded Goths prostrated themselves in worship of the sun—where later Viking chiefs sought safe harbor for their sea-wearied ships and where, during the Middle Ages, the all-powerful Hanseatic league established its trading center.

Here, long ago, sea-faring Gotlanders lived amid wealth and refinement, their ships the rulers of the northern seas. But their very wealth brought about their decline.

Seemingly secure behind its mighty city walls, Visby allowed the tales of its great wealth to spread beyond the seas. They were minting their own gold coins, those Gotlanders—even their pigs ate from troughs of hammered silver.

Old Viking Port of Bergen

Situated at the head of the Bergensfjord and pierced by its three branches, the old Viking port of Bergen, Norway, lies wedged in between its quays and its mountains, rising at its back door. Tile-roofed houses in white and yellow stick to the mountain's sheer slopes like pins on a map, and a cable-car takes travelers up to Flotien on its crest, where they can look down on the city and the fjord spread out below.

On the old German quay is Norden, the oldest part of the city, where tiny houses, jammed one against another, cling precariously to the slopes of steep hill and narrow streets climb a zig-zag course to the top. These houses are ancient, and Bergen, in spite of its jumble of traffic, the life and color of its fish market, is an ancient city.

It was founded in 1070 by King Olav Kyrre, the Peaceful, and during the Middle Ages was a great part of the Hanseatic league.

DEDICATE CAIRN TO HUGH GRAY

T. P. Peterson and O. P. Schumann attended the banquet given in honor of Hugh J. Gray, secretary of the West Michigan Tourist association that was held at Park Place Hotel, Traverse City, Monday night.

This event preceded the main event of dedicating a cairn in honor of Mr. Gray Tuesday afternoon. This is located 21 miles north of Traverse City on U. S. 31. It is built of stones gathered from Michigan's 83 counties, each of which is engraved with the name of the county from whence it came. Crawford county's stone, like the others, is about 24 inches in size. Mr. Peterson personally contributed the stone and engraving and delivered it to the scene.

This cairn is a beautiful tribute to Mr. Gray and is given in token of the excellent service he has done for the promotion of the tourist business in Michigan.

In his response to the many fine tributes paid him by some of the speakers, Mr. Gray stated that T. F. Marston of the East Michigan Tourist association, and George Bishop of the Northern association were just as much entitled to the tourist business honor as he was.

While Mr. Gray was proclaimed as the dean of Michigan Tourist men, beginning his activities in 1917, Mr. Marston's service in that line began fully seven years earlier. These three men are doing a great job for Michigan and each is deserving a share in the honors that are being conferred upon Mr. Gray, which, according to his remarks, he would wish to have it that way. When traveling north of Traverse City, on U. S. 31, be sure to see this fine commemorative cairn.

No Fatalities Over Holiday Week

End

Wouldn't you like to see that headline in your local paper on July 5th? Of course you would. Well, it's up to every one of us to do our part to make it possible.

A careful check to see that your car is in perfect mechanical condition before starting on that trip, extra caution and less speed on the road, adherence to all traffic laws—these are some of the precautions we must observe if we want a holiday week end free from motor vehicle accidents.

There are also other hazards we must consider. Fireworks. Urge the children to be extremely careful when handling them. Swimming. Take extra precautions—don't take unnecessary chances in the water. Boating. Exercise the greatest care while you are in a canoe, rowboat, or other vessel.

Seemingly secure behind its mighty city walls, Visby allowed the tales of its great wealth to spread beyond the seas. They were minting their own gold coins, those Gotlanders—even their pigs ate from troughs of hammered silver.
